Fraternity Ranking

Sir:

It seems to me you have been guilty of poor psychology in the display of the news about fraternity rankings in athletics and in scholarship, as you carried this information in your November issue. The tabulation of the results of the athletic competition among the fraternities appeared at the top of the page and in such form that it attracted attention. (It had to appear in a box-score arrangement, of course.)

Why should the scholastic ratings not have similar treatment? You know from experience that people look at something set up like the athletic report and, on the other hand, will not take the trouble to look through a series of ratings put in ordinary news form.

The real objective of the educational program is not intramural athletics. Your magazine should reflect the same scale of values which the University does in honoring scholarship. We have a responsibility here and should take every opportunity of meeting it.

Barber Shop

Sir:

Recently I was named to the International Public Relations Committee of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America, Inc. I have been active for some time in the Washington Chapter, and sing with the Washington Diplomats, who visited Brown on an informal trip last April.

I would like very much to hear from Brown men who are members of SPEBSQSA. Carleton Scott '24 is director of the chorus of the Oakland County Chapter, Michigan. He has sung with several famous quartets, including the Detroit Ambassadors and the Clef Dwellers of Oakland County, and is now forming a new quartet.

Then another Brown man, Tommy Brown '28 is the tenor of the Cleveland Lamplighters, one of the better quartets of the society, and a finalist in the society's international championships.

In some of the nearly 400 cities where the society now has chapters, many colleges and universities are forming quartets which are affiliating with the society. The University of Pittsburgh quartet, for example, has affiliated with our Pittsburgh Chapter. Here is a possibility for the Brown quartet. There is a chapter in Pawtucket, also in New Bedford, but none in Providence to my knowledge.

"A Grateful Feeling"

Gentlemen:

I have seen many classmates since Commencement Day, 1946. There were about 20 at the Naval Supply Corps School in Bayonne. Out of a complement of 10 officers aboard the Fechteler, there were four Brown men. I met several Brown men in Panama and San Francisco, and you would see at least half a dozen any time in the Balboa Park Officers' Club in San Diego. I guess most of them are out of the Navy now, though, although a couple of weeks ago I met Haydn Owens '46, a fraternity brother (Phi Psi) here in Tsingtao, China.

It makes for a grateful feeling to be part of an institution like Brown and have a common bond with alumni the world over.

Sir:

I had occasion to go to Indiana University the other day to attend a meeting of a journalistic fraternity, and I was happy to find the BROWN ALUMNI MONTHLY among other college magazines on the magazine table in the Union. I still contend it is one of the best university alumni magazines in the country.

► ► An Important Step for the Campaign

► ► A TWO-MILLION DOLLAR INCREASE in the objective of the Brown University Housing and Development Campaign has been necessitated by rising costs, President Henry M. Wriston announced Dec. 15, thus setting Brown's new campaign goal at six million dollars.

To implement this new phase of the drive, Arthur B. Homer, Brown '17, President of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, will head a 12-man Control Committee which, in addition to forming policy will be responsible for directing all activities for planning, construction, financing and fund-raising required for the completion of the project.

President Wriston, explaining the new objective, said, "The change in goal results from an increase in construction costs over and above the estimate made at the time the campaign was launched. This estimate of two years ago was made before any large-scale construction had been undertaken in Rhode Island — when it was impossible to gauge the extent of cost increases now confronting us. Our recent building experience and that of others give for the first time an estimate on outlays for building under present conditions.

"This committee takes over direction at a most propitious time in our campaign. Andrews Hall has been completed and occupied. Another new building, Whitehall, has been in full use for 14 months. Both are distinguished additions to the facilities of this University, and the fact that they are already active parts of the campus today demonstrates with full force the necessity for proceeding with our overall project. The quadrangles and refectory are vital to the educational program of the college. We could use them today, and we must do everything in our power to provide them for tomorrow."

► THE REORGANIZATION of the project now calls for total expenditures approximating nine million dollars. Half of the six million to be raised from alumni and friends of the University is on hand, and an intensified drive to raise the second three million will be launched after the first of the year through the existing nationwide alumni campaign organization which Col. G. Edward Buxton '02 has headed. The Corporation of the University intends to obtain another three million which can be serviced, both as to payment of principal and interest, from dormitory income and other sources.

The committee is composed of Thomas B. Appleget '17, Vice-President of the Rockefeller Foundation and Trustee of Brown since 1928; W. Randolph Burgess '12, Vice-President of the National City Bank of New York and a Fellow of the Brown Corporation; G. Burton Hibbert, Treasurer of Brown and a member of the Corporation since 1943; Rowland R. Hughes '17, Comptroller of the National City Bank of New York and Alumni Trustee on the Brown Corporation; W. Easton Louttit, Jr., '25, Providence business executive, Archivist of Brown since 1938 and Alumni Trustee; Donald G. Millar '19, an Alumni Trustee of the University and President of Greenfield Tap and Die Corporation; Arthur W. Packard '25, executive assistant to John D. Rockefeller, Jr., in matters of philanthropy, also an Alumni Trustee; Henry D. Sharpe '94, President of the Brown and Sharpe Manufacturing Company, Chancellor of the University since 1932 and a Trustee of the Corporation since 1904; H. Stanton Smith '21, President of the Associated Alumni; Harold B. Tanner '09, Providence attorney and Trustee of Brown since 1928; and Dr. Henry M. Wriston, President of the University.

"One of the most important problems facing the country today," Mr. Homer said, commenting on his association with the project, "is the provision of a liberal education which thousands of men and women claim and merit in entering our colleges and universities. This campaign's purpose is to meet the problem squarely at Brown where already important strides have been made in progressive planning for the adequate housing of its students.

"As one of the leading private colleges in the country Brown plays a vital part in the maintenance of our free enterprise system. The development of the college along the proposed lines is essential if Brown is to make the contribution in the future which it has in the past."

► PRIOR TO BECOMING Bethlehem Steel's President two years ago at the age of 49, Mr. Homer was for five years Vice-President in charge of the Shipbuilding Division and was responsible for the operation of all the shipbuilding activities of the corporation, the largest private shipbuilding concern in the world. Entering business in 1919 after Navy duty, he has spent his entire career with Bethlehem and its subsidiary companies, and during the late war, when total employment in the Shipbuilding Division reached 182,000, and output over a ship a day, he administered the expansion and operation of all Bethlehem's 15 shipyards.

A Brown Mirror ◀

▶ ▶ SUCCESSFUL MERCHANTS of Brown University Wedgwood Plates, the Associated Alumni this month undertake the sponsorship of still another item recommended for Brunonian homes—an antique-style mirror which features an 1825 campus scene. Deriving its inspiration from an original by a Yankee craftsman of that period, the mirror is offered in either mahogany, black, or maple finish, the first two with relieving gold and brass corner ornaments. Alternatives are provided in the possibility of selecting gilt spindles and dark turnings instead of the reverse.

The mirrors are substantial and well made. A solid birch frame (finished as described above) holds the 1/4-inch glass, 12 3/4 by 25 inches in its surface dimensions. The price of $12.95 includes prepayment of shipping charges anywhere in this country. Any profits will accrue to the treasury of the Associated Alumni for use in projects for the benefit of Brown, but a major incentive to the issuing of the attractively priced mirrors is the desire to provide another souvenir of the University for its alumni.

The picture above the mirror clearly and happily reproduces an old print in the Brown archives which shows Hope College, University Hall, and the President's House from a point to the northwest—in the year 1825 or thereabouts. The scene gains warmth through the discreet use of color, while a brief historical reference appears in a caption for the uninitiated. Acting for the Associated Alumni in selecting and controlling the sale of the mirror is the Memento Committee composed of: Lewis S. Milner '02, chairman, Frederick Schwinn '05, Frederick E. Schoeneweiss '20, and John M. Curtis '30.

New Songs for Brown Singers

▶ ▶ FIRST ENTRIES, including some home recordings, have been received in the new phase of the Brown Song Competition, according to Committee Chairman Arlan R. Coolidge, head of the University's Music Department. He reminds composers that manuscripts must reach the Alumni Office at Brown on or before May 1, 1948. A prize or prizes will definitely be awarded, not later than during the June Commencement.

Two hundred dollars was given by an anonymous alumnus to stimulate the writing of new Brown songs by men of Brown and women of Pembroke. Any student, past or present, is eligible to compete for the cash and the honor.

"The text must be original and have special Brown appeal. Words with romantic or historical interest are preferred. The music, too, must be original, rhythmic, distinctly melodic, suitable for group singing and not necessarily a marching song. Contestants are asked to present a harmonized version of their songs in an arrangement for voice and piano.

"The composer's name should not appear on the manuscript but should be placed in an accompanying sealed envelope bearing on its face some distinguishing pseudonym. The words, SONG CONTEST, should appear prominently on the cover. A prize or prizes totalling $200 will be awarded by the Song Committee, depending upon the entries. In case of dual authorship, the prize will be divided equally between the two composers. Brown University reserves the right to control reproduction and first performance of the winning song or songs."

Alumni Revival ◀

By RUFUS C. FULLER, JR., '19

▶▶ SOCK AND BUSKIN Alumni are at it again. Five nights starting Feb. 10, they will once again tread the boards of Faunce House presenting that thrilling melodramatic spectacle, made famous by the late James O'Neill, "The Count of Monte Cristo."

To an old timer, at least an old timer as far as Sock and Buskin is concerned, the fact that its Alumni want to "carry on" is the most satisfying proof of soundness and worth of the struggles of that organization. The fact that in spite of the many changes which have transpired during the past three decades, men and women from nearly every intervening year want to contribute again to the college dramatic work and will take the time to do so, is a tribute the "esprit de corps" of Sock and Buskin and the inspiration that lies behind it. In a few years Sock and Buskin will celebrate its 50th anniversary. That should be a memorable occasion—the 30th and 40th were.

The Alumni Group was unable to function during war years; its last appearance was in "Shore Acres" in 1941. But last spring the questions were raised, "Shall Sock and Buskin, Inc. (that is the official name of Sock and Buskin Alumni) continue to function and if so why?" The response was an immediate and enthusiastic "Yes!" The Alumni can still fill in a blank spot on the dramatic program. The organization can still supply prize money for undergraduate work. (It can, and perhaps should, increase those amounts, even to scholarship size.) Since many alumni are members of the local community, they can continue to strengthen and improve the interest of our community not only in Sock and Buskin but in Brown.

What would be the quickest way to pull together the loose ends of the work, to get back in the groove again? Produce another good melodrama with an eye to the box office. Again unanimous feeling and from plenty of alumni, not only willing but enthusiastic about taking the responsibility of getting it on.

The "Count of Monte Cristo" has had an interesting stage history. It was first dramatized in 1848 by Dumas himself and presented in Drury Lane Theater, London, in that year. It was literally thrown off the stage by an enraged audience which suffered through 221 scenes, 37 tableaux and two days of performance.

The problem of reducing a three-volume novel to 2½ hours of theatrical performance is a gargantuan task. Version after version of the story met with indifferent success until 1885 when James O'Neill purchased the Charles Fecther edition, whittled it down, as only an actor could and subsequently gave over 6000 performances. That's a record in any man's language.

The Alumni production opens on Feb. 10 and plays through the rest of the week. The production committee is anxious to make the opening night a real reunion for all Sock and Buskin alumni. The committee promises, in addition to a full evening of un-inhibited enjoyment, a reappearance of the famous "Golden Oak Quartet" to regale you between acts. How about it? Will you be there? ◀

▶ The 7th Honor

▶▶ PROF. ZECHARIAH CHAFEE JR. '07 of the Harvard Law School received the Susan Colver Rosenberger Medal, Brown University's highest honor, when he came to the campus Nov. 25 to address the Honors Exercises in Sayles Hall. He is the seventh alumnus so recognized since the award was provided for in 1919 "for specially notable or beneficial achievement." Others have been: Dr. Charles V. Chapin '76, Chief Justice Fred T. Field '00, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., '97, Charles Evans Hughes '81, Mary E. Woolley, Pembroke '94, and Henry D. Sharpe '94.

President Wriston's citation of Prof. Chafee was as follows: "By combining the attributes of a scholar, a teacher, and a man of action, you exemplify that essential balance between thought, word and deed which typifies man at his best. Your studies have made you, in a scholarly sense, master of one of the vital aspects of freedom. Your knowledge of the philosophy, history and practice of free speech is unique. A highly articulate power of exposition and a passionate attachment to truth assured your eminence as a teacher. Devotion to the public interest, fearlessness in expressing your views have made you the apostle of a great ideal. Therefore Brown University confers upon you its award . . . and I have the honor on behalf of the faculty and of the University to present to you the Susan Colver Rosenberger Medal."

Prof. Chafee gave a rousing address at the special Honors Convocation on Senior Day in Chapel when 44 undergraduates were rewarded for scholastic accomplishment. We must, he said, "have stirring reaffirmation of our faith" in democracy, spread democracy's tenets by the example of our acts, and put our own house in order so that our principles and our intentions may be unmistakable to the rest of the world. In urging support of the Marshall Plan, he called it "the first great step in the right direction since V-E Day."

Prof. Chafee's life has been full of significant and distinguished work, and the Rosenberger Medal was conferred only a few weeks after another monumental production by him—his comprehensive, two-volume study of the free press in America (a field of special interest to him always) under the title of "Government and Mass Communications." The writings were the natural consequence of his service as vice-chairman of the Commission on Freedom of the Press. It is a book "mountainous with ideas," in the words of George C. Hull '18, one reviewer. He points up the obligations of freedom as well as its privileges, further pursuing the line already explored in his statement of last Spring on behalf of this country to the United Nations. ◀

"MOMMY AND DADDY have put the B on me to wish you a Merry Christmas," was the message on this card from Paul George Sittenfeld of Kansas City, son of Leon B. Sittenfeld '34. Greetings varied and gay from all over the world added to the holiday pleasures of officers and Faculty of the University, alumni leaders, and those who bring you this magazine. Personal acknowledgment has been impossible, but this note may serve to attest a very real appreciation of Christmas and New Year's messages.

The Best Skippers ◀

▶ ▶ TOP HONORS came to Brown's sailors when the Inter-collegiate Yacht Racing Association made its awards at the end of the fall season of 1947. In one of the most successful campaigns in the history of the sport, Brown was highly placed in all regattas and captured the coveted Danmark Trophy in the Sixth Annual International Invitation Regatta and another first in the number one event of the season, the Seventh Annual Invitation Regatta for the Erwin H. Schell Trophy. In addition, the Brunonians led a field of visitors on their home waters in the 12th Annual Brown Invitation Regatta.

Credited with the achievement are Rick Wilson, Buddy Morris, and Charlie Ill, together with their crews Bill Harold and Randy Bliss. Wilson is Commodore of the Brown Yacht Club, a veteran of 11 years with Beetles and Indians in Narragansett Bay. Morris came to Brown from Port Washington, N. Y., and the Manhasset Bay Yacht Club, where he sailed Atlantics and International Ones. As a Freshman in 1940 he won the International Freshman Dinghy Championship. Ill has been sailing since 1934 when he raced Inland Lake Scows on Barnegat Bay. He is a Newark, N. J., boy with Mantoloking Yacht Club affiliation. Harold sailed Rhode 18 Class boats at the Pine Orchard Yacht Club near his New Haven home, while Bliss, a Providence boy, gained most of his experience in the Cape Cod Knockabouts on Point Judith Pond.

When the Danmark Trophy was donated in 1942 by Capt. Knud Hansen of the Danish Training Ship Danmark, the Royal Danish Cadets competed with the Americans. This fall on the Thames the international aspect reappeared with a crew from the University of Toronto. Brown took a strong lead during the first day of racing and fought off challenges to win. Brown's 180 points were six ahead of Yale in second place, with Coast Guard Academy 160, Toronto 147, M.I.T. 147, Harvard 114, Holy Cross 109, Princeton 96, Trinity 93, and Dartmouth 74 following in that order. Wilson was high skipper for the regatta, while Ill also led his division.

The entry list for the Schell competition in November was limited to the strongest contenders: a crack team from McGill; Boston College, New England Association champions; George Washington and Navy, victors in special eliminations held at Annapolis; Harvard, winner of the ICYRA Freshman title; King's Point, Middle Atlantic associate champions; Tufts, defending titleholder; Yale's National Dinghy champions; and Coast Guard and Northeastern on the basis of their season's records. Again Brown took a commanding lead the first day as Ill and Wilson each dominated his division, the latter taking three firsts and a fourth in four starts.

On the Seekonk Ill came home first in his division and Morris second in his, to give Brown 91 points. Coast Guard was second with 79, and the field: Harvard 74, M.I.T. 70, R. I. State 66, Worcester Tech 54, Yale 49, Trinity 40. Ill took four of six firsts. A dual meet called for five boats each from Brown and Rhode Island, with the Bear ahead 197-117. Other performances of the season: third in the 15th annual Pentagonal Regatta on the Charles River Basin; third in the midwinter regatta on the Potomac Dec. 14 (George Washington 102, M.I.T. 98, Brown 95, Harvard 88, Maryland 82, Georgetown 71, Boston College 66, King's Point 57; fourth in the ICYRA Freshman regatta at M.I.T.

The successes of the fall followed others last spring when Brown's New England Champions captured both the Sharpe and Owen Trophies.

Strategic Intelligence Unit Planned

▶ ▶ BROWN UNIVERSITY has accepted responsibility for establishing a Strategic Intelligence Unit under the Organized Reserve Corps Affiliation Plan, the Department of the Army announced in Washington in December. The unit is the first in Rhode Island under the Army's new plan for training within the Organized Reserve those men whose civilian skills and occupations can be converted quickly to the requirements of the Army in time of emergency. The Brown unit has not yet been activated, but organization will begin when a commanding officer (a Lieutenant Colonel or Colonel) is chosen by the University, according to Dr. Robert W. Kenny, Dean of the College.

The Army's Affiliation Plan—too little known so far—has been developed because of the necessity of having trained manpower to expand immediately the military structure in case of need. The Army does not expect that there will again be a "time cushion" that will enable it to train the vast numbers of specialists needed to put a fighting army in the field. The affiliation principle is not new—it was used successfully in both the world wars to a limited extent—but it is now being expanded tremendously. Rhode Island Hospital provided a hospital unit in World War II under such an arrangement.

The Brown unit will assemble and train the highly-specialized technicians necessary for intelligence duties. Its official title will be Strategic Intelligence Unit (Research and Analysis). Dr. Kenny, who fought through the Pacific War as a Field Artilleryman in the 43rd Division, said that several members of the Brown Faculty were engaged in intelligence activities during the war, and some have shown an interest in being associated with the new intelligence unit.

When the unit is activated, he said, officers in the vicinity who have experience in intelligence will have an opportunity to join. Thus the unit, although sponsored by Brown and housed by the University, will not be restricted to members of the college community but will draw its personnel from the city and State.

The unit will handle a wide variety of strategic intelligence projects—"Everything from the wheat crop of Bulgaria to the annual rainfall on a South Pacific island," Dr. Kenny said. Under its research function it will assemble information in such diverse fields as economics, physical science, or ballistics. Its analysis function then will study this information and relate it to strategic considerations. Members of the unit will be active members of the Reserve Corps and will have regular meeting, or "drill" nights through the year.

Although the Affiliation Plan has not progressed very rapidly in New England, it has tapped the civilian skills of a surprising number of industries and activities across the country. Laundries by the score have agreed to organize Quartermaster Laundry Detachments. The Birmingham Chamber of Commerce is setting up a Quartermaster Base Depot Supply and Sales Company. In Wilmington, Del., an Ordnance Ammunition Company is being organized at the Atlas Powder Co. The Retail Credit Co. of Atlanta, with agents skilled at tracing bad debts and running down information of a confidential nature, has agreed to sponsor a Counter-Intelligence Detachment. Quartermaster Bakery Companies have been organized by scores of commercial bakeries and cookie companies. Dozens of other examples are cited. Williams and Amherst Colleges will have units similar to that at Brown.

N. J. Public Service Promotion

▶ GEORGE W. GRIMM, JR., '20 has been promoted to the post of General Counsel of the Public Service Corporation of New Jersey, President George H. Blake announced in December. Mr. Grimm has been since 1939 assistant counsel under Wendell J. Wright, who retires. In consequence of his new responsibility, Mr. Grimm also becomes General Counsel of each of the subsidiaries of the Public Service Corporation, principal among which are: Public Service Electric and Gas Company, South Jersey Gas Company, County Gas Company, Public Service Coordinated Transport, and Public Service Interstate Transportation Co. He is widely known in alumni circles for his active interest on behalf of Brown.

A graduate of Harvard Law School, Mr. Grimm was admitted to the bar in 1923 and became a counselor in 1927; he is a special master in Chancery. New Jersey awarded him the State Distinguished Service Medal in 1941 for his accomplishment in planning and organizing the Selective Service in the State. He held the rank of Lt. Col. in the New Jersey National Guard in the Judge Advocate General's department.

Mr. Grimm was a Representative in the New Jersey Assembly in 1930 and 1931, served as Assistant State Tax Commissioner, and was Police Recorder and Judge of the Recorder's Court in East Orange in 1930. He served as Judge in the First District Court in Bergen County, where he was active in civic and legal affairs, and later had five years in office as County Prosecutor. Formerly a partner of the law firm of Wakelee, Thornall, and Wright, he joined the Public Service law department in 1926. His fraternities are Phi Beta Kappa and Sigma Nu.

SIDNEY CLIFFORD:

As new Chairman of the Association of Class Secretaries, he leads an important company of workers for Brown.

Chairman of the Secretaries

▶ SIDNEY CLIFFORD '15 has accepted appointment as Chairman of the Association of Class Secretaries to fill the unexpired term of the late Charles P. Sisson '11, it was announced last month by H. Stanton Smith '21, President of the Associated Alumni. Mr. Sisson would normally have been succeeded by the Vice-Chairman, Elmer S. Horton '10, but Mr. Horton is no longer a Class Secretary, having been elected President of his Class at its last reunion.

In Mr. Clifford the Association gains the services of a man long active in alumni affairs with a record of effective work as Secretary of his Class. He is a past President of the Associated Alumni, a former Alumni Fund Trustee, and last June completed his period on the Brown Corporation as Alumni Trustee.

O.B.E. to Dr. Merrill

▶ THE ORDER of the British Empire was conferred this fall upon Dr. Theodore C. Merrill '96, valiant Paris physician who remained to minister during the occupation by the Germans. The award recognized his services to British subjects who were ill and destitute in Paris during the war. Ambassador Duff Cooper acted for Britain at the Embassy with a military guard adding formality to the ceremonies in the courtyard.

Dr. Merrill has been in Paris since the First World War, in which he won the Legion of Honor from France. On the staff of the American Hospital, he played a prominent part in the life of the city from 1920 on but kept his contacts with Brown ever green. When the division of France into the occupied and unoccupied zones impended, he knew he was being cut off from home and sent his loyal greetings and Phi Beta Kappa key to Brown. In recognition of his standing, the Germans accorded him a large measure of freedom to come and go in France. A box of souvenirs came to the Brown Library from Dr. Merrill after the war, and his anniversary ode was a feature of 1896's 50th reunion in 1946.

Senator Hastings Re-elected

▶ PROF. WILLIAM T. HASTINGS '03, head of the English Department at Brown and Secretary of the Faculty, has been honored again by Phi Beta Kappa, which re-elected him in December to the Senate of the United Chapters. At the annual meeting in Princeton he was also appointed chairman of the committee on qualifications, which has responsibility for investigating all institutions which apply for Phi Beta Kappa Charters. Prof. Hastings is Secretary of the Rhode Island Alpha.

Burgess on the Harriman Report

▶▶ ABOVE ALL, the Harriman report recognizes that "European recovery depends much more on what these countries do for themselves than on our aid," Dr. W. Randolph Burgess '12, vice-chairman of the National City Bank of New York, told the American Statistical Association recently at a dinner of its New York Chapter. He helped frame that report as a member of the commission under Secretary of Commerce Harriman which studied the effect on this country of foreign aid.

The original estimates of the amount of that aid were "just about as good as any economic prediction which attempts to forecast what will happen four years in advance," the Brown Fellow said. One result of the Harriman committee's survey was to find that the 16 countries which had estimated their world trade deficits had been "over-sanguine as to the goods that are likely to be available in the United States for export." ("It is very difficult for a European who visits our country and sees it overflowing with milk and honey to realize that there are any limits on our capacity.") Also, some of the Paris requirements "are larger than we believe those countries can digest in four years."

Out of a composite of many statistical and economic judgments, therefore, the Harriman Committee made its estimate that the foreign aid program would cost the United States something like $12 to $17 billion. Stating definitely that no one was wise enough to determine now just what the foreign aid program would cost for the next four years, the Committee therefore recommended its program. It would pass on its mandate to other agencies and the latter would make decisions "from year to year when the evidence was more reliable." The Harriman group recommended:

1—That the Congress ought to decide each year how much it should appropriate for food, coal, and fertilizer to send abroad.

2—That requests for industrial equipment should be referred to the International Bank.

3—That in the middle area of raw materials and shorter term projects, the organization and well-tested capacity of the Export-Import Bank be used, but with special appropriations by Congress from year to year to cover needs which prove to be sound.

4—That an overall agency should be created to administer the food, coal and fertilizer program, to supervise the raw material program, and to maintain contact with the European countries and with our domestic situation so as to recommend to the Congress from time to time how much aid may safely and wisely be extended. ◀

The Man Who Found Housing

▶ BROWN HOUSING DIRECTOR, James W. Hunter, died at his home in Barrington on November 8, 1947, after a long illness. He was a native of New York and a graduate of Colgate in 1923.

At the time of Mr. Hunter's appointment to the post of Housing Director in the fall of 1946, the University was faced with the problem of providing quarters for some 2000 men in residence. The first step in attempting to meet the demand was to increase the capacity of many of the dormitories and fraternity houses. Approximately 700 men had to be placed off-campus, and response to a drive conducted through the radio, press and through church bulletins made possible a list of rooms available to 1400 Brown men. This fall there were fewer men needing rooms off-campus, but again the campaign to house them brought in a listing far exceeding the demand. This program, as well as housing for Faculty, had the devoted direction of Mr. Hunter.

He is survived by his widow, two daughters, and a brother, John Hunter of Boston. During the war he had done important work for Brown in connection with the atomic project. ◀

Gotham Sets the Date

▶ APART FROM COMMENCEMENT, the largest Brown reunion of recent years has been the annual New York-New Jersey alumni dinner. The date for the 1948 dinner has been set for March 18, which should be sufficient notice to those who like to save dates.

Robert C. Litchfield '23, President of the Brown University Club in New York, announces that his classmate, Edward J. Gorman, will be general chairman of this annual affair. Joseph Micucci '31 is one of his principal aides as chairman of the important committee on arrangements.

That breezy four-page Brown Club News tells of recent activities of interest: The speaker at the Dec. 5 luncheon was Bob Edge '29, sportsman, broadcaster, and television commentator. Don Ball '26, also of CBS, was on hand to give him backing but had told the luncheon chairman, Ed Sulzberger '29, that he was "unavailable as a speaker."

Jimmy Jemal '18 was chairman of the ladies' evening in the Great Hall of the clubhouse on Nov. 19, acting as master of ceremonies in presenting the talent he had booked. Among the artists: Hubert Brill, mentalist; Paul Duke, magician; Lou Handman, composer, and his wife, singing comedienne; Dorothy Von Sternberg, soprano; Abner Silver, of Tin Pan Alley; and Bob Lee, rhyming wizard.

The Club luncheon on Nov. 14 was highlighted by the talk of Paul M. Swaffield '16, advertising manager of the Hood Rubber Company, but on Saturdays better known as a football official. Jeff Granger '13 handled the formalities in the absence of C. D. Mercer '06, luncheon chairman. Brown men get together every Friday noon in the Extension Dining Room, notes the News.

Noting that the Class of 1923 used the Club to start the ball rolling for its 25th reunion with a dinner Nov. 12, the News suggests that other classes convene at the Brown Club to set up plans for their celebrations. A worthwhile service the News also renders is in the listing of employment desires or employment opportunities. The papers seems to be in the editorial hands of Walt Smith '24 and Howie Weeks '25.

Luncheon in Indiana

▶ THE SECOND LUNCHEON meeting of the Brown University Alumni Club of Indiana took place Dec. 11 at the Indianapolis Athletic Club when Dean Emery R. Walker, Jr., was in town. President Samuel R. Damon '16 presided, while Secretary William A. Dyer, Jr., '24 was in charge of arrangements. It was an informal get-together, with roast beef followed by coffee, smoke, and chat. Mr. Walker had the latest news from Brown for an eager group.

Others present were: Alfred E. Kessler '35, newly come from Denver; Donald C. Howarth '39, Walter B. Leonard '21, vice-president of the Red Rock Bottling Co.; Lloyd W. Josselyn '07, librarian of the Albert A. Wells Memorial Library in Lafayette; Charles M. Fort '19 of Southport with a son pointing for Brown next fall. During his visit in Indianapolis, Dean Walker visited the Park School, whose headmaster is John Caldwell '20.

Standing Invitation

▶ THE FOLLOWING regularly scheduled luncheons are fixtures on the Brown Club calendar. Visitors to the cities, as well as alumni in the area, have a standing invitation to attend these gatherings:

BALTIMORE, third Thursday of each month, private dining room, Northway Apartments, 3700 No. Charles St., 6:15 p. m.

CHICAGO, every Friday, at noon, in the Chicago Real Estate Board at 105 W. Madison St.

HARTFORD, third Thursday of each month, Heublein Hotel, 12:15.

LOS ANGELES, every Thursday, Continental Room, Hotel Alexandria, 5th and Spring Sts., at noon.

NEW YORK, every Friday noon, N. Y. Brown Club, 39 E. 39th St., Extension Dining Room.

PHILADELPHIA, second Tuesday of each month, Alpha Club, 1911 Chestnut St., 12:15.

PITTSBURGH, fourth Friday of each month, Child's Restaurant, 5th and Summerfield Sts., 12:15.

Chicago Marks the Yule

▶ NO PARTY in Chicago ever rings the bell the way the Brown Club's annual Christmas Luncheon does. Timed when the undergraduates from the Chicago area are at home for the holidays, it always brings out a large representation of the students, and the alumni enjoy this contact with them. Incidentally, it pays dividends in future recruiting of alumni interest when those boys graduate, for they appreciate early in the day what a good Club they have in Chicago and how much fun the members gain from the association.

This winter the luncheon for the undergraduates was arranged for Dec. 30 at the University Club, with President Homer R. Faulkner '23 in charge. The guest of honor was Alumni Executive Officer William B. McCormick, and the campus delegation also included Dean Emery R. Walker of the Admission Office and James Cunningham of the Veterans College.

Cleveland as Host

▶ EMERY R. WALKER, Dean of Admission, was Cleveland's guest Dec. 2 when the Brown Club had its first fall meeting. A dozen alumni gathered at the University Club for a very fine evening. Secretary Harry L. Hoffman reports an excellent talk by the visitor. All were looking forward to the Jan. 2 basketball game between Brown and Western Reserve in Cleveland, when the Club also planned to sponsor a pre-game dinner for members and wives.

Alta Californian Annual

▶ PLANS are already under way in San Francisco for the annual dinner of the Brown Club of Alta California on Feb. 14. President Nathaniel Blaisdell '83 and Fremont E. Roper '11 are discussing arrangements and program for the event, which probably will be held at the University Club, host to so many fine Brown gatherings in the past. One possibility is the showing of a Brown football film from the 1947 season.

Philadelphia Dinner Plans

▶ BROWN ALUMNI of Philadelphia will meet for their annual banquet Feb. 18 when President Wriston pays his visit to the city. The dinner will be held in the Mirage Room of the Barclay Hotel, scene of last year's successful affair. Roy Randall '28, head coach of football at Haverford, has taken on the job of chairman of the banquet committee.

Preliminary announcements about the annual meeting were made at the regular monthly luncheon of the Club Dec. 9 at the Belgravia. (They're held the second Tuesday of the month.) York A. King, Jr., '34, presided, with the following present: R. E. Randall '28, Emory S. Kates '25, Maxwell Kaufman '30, Donald C. Rubel '23, Harold A. Backus '18, H. H. Williams '31, Charles C. Peck '44, W. Stimpson Brown, Jr., '37, Morton J. Simon '32, W. N. Prehluda '43, D. R. Atherton, Jr., '31, W. H. Shupert '22, Harry Leighton '03, Seth K. Mitchell '15, and Howard C. Cummings '22.

Tom Gilbane '33, Chairman of The Brown Athletic Council, will be the speaker at the Jan. 13 luncheon. This will be held at the Alpha Club, 1911 Chestnut St.

In Los Angeles

▶ FOOTBALL MOVIES of the Brown-Holy Cross game were the attraction in Los Angeles when the Brown Club met for a December evening at the Alexandria Hotel. Among those present: Hugh Wallace '37, Bill Creasey '39, Ed Jessup '44, Lyle Caldwell '21, Dick Messenger '37, Steve Dolley '42, George Giraud '42, Fergus Purves '23, Larry Gates '21, Bill Chicester '38, and A. J. Olsen '08. In addition to the above the following are attending most of the weekly luncheons: Harry Howard '24, Stan Taylor '42, Miles Flint '27, and Houghton Metcalf '04. Letters from various officials and professors at Brown are a regular feature of these gatherings, at the Alexandria, every Thursday.

Plans are shaping up for a beer party in early February.

Washington's New Officers

▶ GEORGE HURLEY, Jr., '41 was elected President of the Brown University Alumni Club of Washington at the annual dinner meeting, held at the Burlington Hotel with 50 present. He succeeds Norman S. Case '08, who served as toastmaster for the program. Speakers included William B. McCormick '23, Alumni Executive Officer, who had news of campus trends; John Henry '27, Sunday Editor of the Washington Star; and Senator Theodore Francis Green '87.

Other posts in the Club organization were filled during the business portion of the meeting: Vice-President—Paul Harrison '41; Secretary—Winthrop M. Southworth, Jr., '30; Treasurer—Thomas Shotten, Jr., '30. Board of Governors—Mr. Case and Mr. Henry, one year; E. Lawrence Chandler '09 and Norman O. Tietjens '25, for two years; Lawrence L. Hurley '19 and John A. French '25, three years; Dr. Waldo G. Leland '00 and James V. Bennett '18, four years. Advisory Committee—Arthur Sundlun '11, chairman; Dr. Edmund C. Burnett '90, Congressman Howard Coffin '01, Senator Green, and John J. O'Connor '08.

progress at Brown to the alumni in the Merrimack Valley when those Massachusetts men met at the Peabody House of Andover Academy for dinner Dec. 6. "Brown Goes Forward," was Prof. Adams' topic. He stressed the point that it was not merely a period of change but of moving forward, not merely of numerical expansion but of growth in stature.

Frederick M. Boyce '09 presided, assisted in making arrangements by Secretary James S. Eastham '19. Guests included members of the Andover faculty, among them mathematicians, alumni of Bowdoin, Middlebury, Harvard, M.I.T., and Penn State. The Brunonians included: Ephrem A. Hudon and Paul J. Spencer of Lowell, Charles R. Iovino and Thomas R. Hadfield of Methuen, Rev. Herman L. Noyes of Lawrence, Rufus E. Corlew of Haverhill, Thomas R. Rockwell of North Andover, S. H. Bailey, Jr., Irving Southworth and others from Andover.

New York Honors Engle

MEMBERS of the New York Brown Club honored Rip Engle Dec. 12 by selecting him as their "coach of the year," when 100 alumni gave him a testimonial luncheon that took him by surprise. Recipient of several votes in a recent nation-wide poll to pick the country's top coach, Engle was given a wrist watch by Everett M. Arnold '21 on behalf of those present. Another speaker was Robert C. Litchfield '23, President of the New York Club, who presided at the affair in the Landon Room of the clubhouse on 39th St.

Praised as a builder of character as well as of football teams, Engle said he felt proud to be a part of the Brown community and to contribute to the ideals in life for which Brown stands. He gave an informal review of the season during a discussion period which followed the lunch.

Basketball Tourists

FOR A TEAM about to embark on a Midwestern tour during the holidays in December, the Brown basketball five had not shown anything to promise any vast successes en route. The team had been defeated by Harvard, Connecticut, and M.I.T., with a single besting of Worcester Tech. However, some basis for hope appeared in the distinct improvement shown in each encounter.

It was conceded at the start of the season that Brown's new coach, Bob Morris, had no spectacular talent with which to work this year. For the veterans of other campaigns, there was the necessity of absorbing the third new coaching system in as many winters. And Moe Mahoney, who sparked the quintet to its best performances last year, was ineligible for the first semester and might not report for the second lest he sacrifice a whole year of competition later on. Dutch Schultz was sick and John Muste, another tall veteran, was hampered by a bad cold. Flick was still playing football.

At first Morris was inclined to give the upperclassmen their chance, with Ernie Corner, Jim Tyrrell, Bob Smith, Jim Cooney, and Bill Falk in action. But, by the time the fourth game came up, only Corner had survived the challenge of Sophomores for starting berths, and George Tyrrell, Ken Provost, Harry Lane, and George Jones had moved up.

Harvard was too rangy and experienced in the opening game, which it won 63-46, while the Bruins were erratic in shooting and unsure of their fast-breaking attack. The only man who could cope with the enemy's height in backboard scrambles was Bob Smith, and he fouled out after 16 minutes, Corner also being lost in the first half. The Crimson led 29-13 at the half, just about the final margin, for Brown was outscored only 34-33 in the second half. At one point Jim Cooney, George Tyrrell, and Harvey Lapidès rallied with 10 straight counters and pulled up to 42-31, but that was the last threat. Scoring was shared by 10 of Brown's 13 players, only George Tyrrell hitting double figures with 11.

Here is Barney Madden's summation in the Journal the morning after the W.P.I. game: "After an encouraging first half at Marvel Gym last night, Brown's basketballers flirted with disaster. They couldn't shoot and they couldn't pass—but they wouldn't stop trying, either, so, as a consequence, a 53-51 victory over Worcester Tech resulted

Indoors: First Phase ◀ ◀

Honor on the Ice

IT MAY NOT SEEM wholly congruous to refer to a sextet which has lost its first three games as a good team, but the description is apt when applied to the current Varsity hockey team, competing in the revival of the ice sport after nine years of inactivity or informality. In losing close, exciting, and hard-fought contests to Harvard, Yale, and Princeton in December, the Brunonians outdid early expectations but fulfilled the guesses that the starters and the second set of reserves would hold their own but we might show weakness in the third rank.

Against Harvard in the opening game, Brown surrendered a lead midway in the third period and lost 10-5 in overtime, with penalties proving costly. The underdogged Bruins gave the Crimson a merry battle and on several occasions appeared destined for a major upset. With Bob Davidson, George Ball, Larry Copeland, and Walt Walworth carrying the attack and Bob Rinfret, Ed Dewey, and Joe Pridmore stubborn on defense, Brown spotted Harvard a two-goal lead during the uncertainties of the first period. The team was meeting a sextet from Cambridge which had already tucked a victory or two under its belt. Then the Bear skated back with a brilliant assault which wiped out the deficit and twice provided a two-goal advantage instead. That margin was protected even when Brown was shorthanded from penalty awards until exhaustion set in in the final session. During a phase of defensive hockey, Brown turned back a succession of threats until the tying goal six minutes from the end of regulation play. In the overtime Copeland was fined two minutes for holding, and Harvard swarmed all over the tired Brown defenses.

Davidson and Copeland scored twice each and Ball once, with Nelson, D'Ewart, and Walworth getting assists, Nelson two of them. These men, except for Walworth and Ball, were in the starting line-up with De Laitre in goal. The reserves included: Ball, Bryant, Burns, Dewey, Healey, Howard, Kimball, Pridmore, Vincent, Shepard, and Walworth. They look forward to a return encounter in Boston Jan. 14.

In the Yale game Brown was at its best in the late stages of the game, bowing 5-4 but netting three goals in the rally which fell short at the end of play. The Elis were in danger continuously in the third period as Brown gained the initiative. Providing themselves with few opportunities in the first period, the Bears yielded two goals during penalty-serving and found themselves behind 3-0. In the last minute one goal by Vincent was nullified by a penalty just before the shot. Action grew hotter in the second where each club lighted the goal signal twice, Nelson scoring on a penalty shot after 10 minutes and Walworth succeeding on a pass from Vincent. Walworth and Davidson came within one of a tie, but there was no scoring in the last eight minutes despite Brown's pressing with threat after threat.

Still in the underdog role, Brown gave Princeton plenty to worry about at Princeton as Nelson scored the first two goals of the game, one in the first 30 seconds. Princeton tied it up before the period ended and went ahead in the second. Brown scored again on Vincent's shot, assisted by Walworth, only to have the Tiger lead once more 4-3 at the second interval. After Davidson's unassisted counter at 3:15 in the third period, Princeton moved ahead for the last time at 8:35, and iced the decision with two more goals for a 7-4 victory.

Coach Moulton had moulded a creditable team for Brown, although his men were handicapped by lack of practice ice. The Rhode Island Auditorium is available for five hours a week, and the outdoor ice was not yet in shape until just before the Christmas holidays. Future games are against Colby in Waterville Jan. 10, Harvard on Jan. 14, Boston University on Jan. 16, Dartmouth at Hanover Jan. 21, Army at West Point Jan. 24, Yale at Providence Feb. 12, and Dartmouth at Providence Feb. 19.

A redoubtable Freshman team had overpowered all opposition up to vacation time, with victories over the strong Mt. St. Charles, one of New England's best school-boy aggregations, 9-5, and Boston University Freshmen, 5-2. The Brown Clippers, with virtually a Freshman line-up, defeated the Providence Naval Reserve team, 8-3. Some of the Freshman stars would be welcome on the Varsity roster, and their winning performances have been by margins even greater than scores suggest. They are smart, fast, and aggressive and believe in getting an early jump on the opposition.

YANKEE: In the annual North-South game was Paul Flick of Brown.

and made a competitive if not artistic success of their home debut." The team was ahead 32-23 at the half and still was eight points up 11 minutes from the end. At that stage the Engineers found the range in earnest and tied the game up 75 seconds from the gun. 51-all. George "Pete" Tyrrell's set shot won for Brown in the closing instants. Eleven of the dozen men nominated by Morris did some scoring, with Smith's 13 points alone in the double-figure column.

Against Connecticut, Brown's play was so ragged and inaccurate that we had no field goal until Corner hit one nearly 15 minutes after the start. But Connecticut was having trouble, too, with the result that its half-time lead was only 21-13. In the first eight minutes after the rest period, the Bear threatened as George Tyrrell, Jim Cooney, and Corner made things interesting, but it was not a sustained spurt. The final score was 59-38 for the UConn. Corner was Brown's high scorer—at 8 points. Fourteen players were used without producing a real hot combination.

Conspicuous improvement came in the M.I.T. game as ball-handling and marksmanship improved. Despite the fact that the Engineers controlled on rebounds, Brown knotted the count 26-26 as the half ended, and went ahead on the first basket of the new period. The closing minutes were thrill-packed. Tech had built up its biggest margin of the night—seven points. Here, Brown rallied and netted six, surrendered a foul shot or two from aggressive attempts to get the ball, and finally gained a tie on Corner's basket 18 seconds from the end. But, as the Bruins fought for possession of the ball, not content with a tie, Patrick fouled the foe with one second left. Madden sank the free shot, and it was M.I.T.'s game 50-49.

Brown basketball partisans go to the games early, for the Freshmen are playing rewarding ball. They are much more at home in Morris' variety of attack and have lost only to Harvard. Their scores: Harvard 54, Brown 48. Brown 75, Worcester Tech JV 42. Brown 50, Connecticut 36. Brown 63, M.I.T. 23. There is a keen scrimmage for places on the team. High scorers for the four games are: Creswell, center, 46 points; Hayes, forward, 43; Thurrott, guard, 41, and Tillinghast, guard, 36.

Cheers by the Mat

▶ ▶ WRESTLING HAS MADE A strong comeback in popular favor at Brown where undefeated Varsity and Freshman teams have given their supporters plenty to cheer about. The Varsity pinned M.I.T. 18-12 and Dartmouth 19-9, while the Freshmen had verdicts over M.I.T. 21-11 and East Providence High 24-8.

The greatest prowess seemed concentrated in the lighter weights, as was the case a year ago when the sport was brought back to College Hill. Capt. Sandy Beachen, 145, and Graham Michael, 136, boast New England titles from last year. Michael won both encounters this winter, as is true of Dick Ferenbach, a classy performer in the 121-pound division.

At Cambridge it was well that the lightweights piled up their points, for Tech provided an upset in the defeat of Beachen by Haggerty and had decisions in the last three classes. The margin of victory came in falls registered by Ferenbach, Michael, and Moody, with a decision by Manchester. There was more excitement in the home meet against Dartmouth, for here it was the two heavies, Rivard and Travison, who took the final eight points and clinched the 19-9 afternoon. The latter scored a fall, as did Ferenbach. Tension was high as Dartmouth came back in cutting her deficit of 3-11 to 9-11. Even after Rivard won his bout, the Green could have gained a tie with a fall, but Travison was not content with defensive tactics and worked a body press successfully at 3:20 in a surprise finish.

Coach Anderton has built up fine spirit in the squad, which reflects itself in Freshman ranks, too, although here he lacks a 121-pounder, spotting the opposition five points before the meets start. He has unbeaten grapplers in Gunn, 128; Dave Michael, 155 and McGregor, 175. Andrews and Pierce, alternates at 165 pounds, and Berzinis and Chernak, rivals in the unlimited division, give those weights a clear record, too. It looks like a lively season on the mat.

A Strong Tank Team

▶ ▶ BEATING M.I.T. and Tufts and losing to the Yale powerhouse, Brown's swimmers have shown strength and balance in a satisfactory first phase of the tank season this winter. Two stars are undefeated—Milt Brier has done the 200-yard breaststroke in the good time of 2:30½, while Win Wilson is a durable man in the 440. Oliver Patrell is another likely boy, trailing only Stack of Yale, who holds the berth on the All-American Swimming Team. A veteran from last year, Ralph Gossler won two races in the 50-yard free-style event with the creditable time of 24 seconds. Bob Pendleton has won a 220 and points behind Wilson in the 440. Gates, with a first and two seconds in the dives, gives Brown a real competitor in an event which almost went by default last winter.

In the M.I.T. tank on Dec. 6 the Brunonians took seven firsts in the nine events, the thrills being provided by Gossler in the short freestyle race where he edged out two Engineers and by Wilson who captured both 220 and 440. Brown took both relays, although it took a disqualification in the freestyle swimming to oust the leading Tech quartet. The meet was clinched in the 440 where Pendleton's three points in second place gave us an unbeatable margin. The score: Brown 46, Tech 29.

Tufts was outclassed in its 47-28 meet, taking only the 100 freestyle until the last relay gave it seven points. Patrell did his 150-yard backstroke in 1:45.1. Yale defeated Brown 48-27, paced by Stack and Paul Girdes, another All-American. Wilson, Brier, and the freestyle relay gave the Bear its three firsts.

The Freshmen followed the pattern by beating M.I.T. 40-25, and losing to Yale, 37-29, showing a well-rounded line-up. Against the Engineers the meet could have gone either way until the two final events, the relay swims, for the lead shifted several times. Allen won the 200-yard freestyle and Gray the 100, while Koch, Baclawski, Shea, Barlow, and Kramer won second places. At New Haven Gray and Baclawski were winners, together with the freestyle relay men (Tubbs, Norton, Greenlees, and Shea).

Starters, Ready

▶ THERE WILL BE PLENTY for track men to do this winter, with a dozen engagements noted on the indoor schedule: Jan. 3—Evening Star meet, Washington, D. C. Jan. 24—Knights of Columbus, meet Boston; West Point Relays, West Point. Jan. 31—Millrose Games, New York. Feb. 7—Boston A.A. Games, Feb. 14—NYAC Games, New York; NEAAU meet, Boston. Feb. 21—National AAU Championships, New York; dual meet, Brown vs. Tufts at Providence. Feb. 28—IC4A Championship, New York. March 13—Dual meet, Brown vs. M.I.T. at Boston. March 20—Dual meet, Brown vs. Boston University, at Providence.

In the Washington Star meet, Coach Ivan Fuqua planned to enter Ray Leeth, hurdler; and the mile relay team made up of the Tobey twins, Royce Crimmin, and Boh Fechter.

Winning for Practice

▶ BROWN'S two-mile relay quartet won a practice race against Harvard Dec. 11 on the Cambridge indoor board track. Jack Allen, John Tobey, Josh Tobey, and Royce Crimmin ran the "short" course in 7:49.3, each man taking on 860 yards instead of 880.

▶ The Brown lettermen picked their own All-Opponent squad, too, and named as the outstanding lineman they met as Jim Feinberg, Harvard guard who began his college football in a Brown uniform. He's the son of Barney Feinberg '17. The squad: Ends — Finical, Princeton; Armstrong, Dartmouth; Fassnacht, Colgate; Setear, Yale; Hatchett, Rutgers. Tackles — Williams, Princeton; Parker, Holy Cross; Redfield, Colgate. Guards — Prchlik, Yale; Young and Truncelleto, Dartmouth; Feinberg, Harvard. Centers — Perantoni, Princeton; Deffley, Holy Cross. Backs — Treichler and Muehleuser, Colgate; Sullivan and Kissell, Holy Cross; Furse, Yale; Burns and Hering, Rutgers; Sella and Franke, Princeton.

► Dan Jesse, football coach at Trinity College in Hartford, gives much credit for his team's fine season to its captain and center, Roger Bestor, who played for Brown during the war. "One of the really great players in small college ranks," he was effective on offense and defense. Another wartime player at Brown was Tom Kavazanjian, who played against us in a Dartmouth uniform one week and appeared in our own backfield against Yale the next Saturday. He was a first stringer at N.Y.U. this past fall. Edmund J. Boyle, a member of Brown's 1945 backfield squad, played on the West Point B team regularly this fall.

► The Brown Network's half-hour Yale game broadcast for WBRU was given off-campus airing by WHIM in November. Bill Roach and Jack O'Connor of the WBRU sports staff prepared the program, giving highlights of past victories, with speakers from the most recent teams which had beaten Yale: Lou Farber, 1926; Bill Gilbane, 1933; Bob Priestley, 1940; Arnie Soloway, 1941; Tom Dorsey, 1943; Norm Iacule, 1945; and Capt. Lou Regine, 1947. Roach regarded the 1932 team as outstanding, having faced an unbeaten team at every single kickoff of the year, with 10 men given All-American mentions and four in the East-West and North-South games. "Every team which has beaten Yale," Roach noted, "has had a coach who had played on a previous winning team. Three of the 1947 coaches had beaten Yale as players."

► "Should there be an Ivy League?" President Wriston addressed himself to that topic as a speaker at one of the weekly Sports Forums on the Brown campus in November. The "League" was still a myth, he observed and declared that it would produce no greater benefits than an independent schedule. "Traditions and customs bind the group in a natural affinity," he said, "but, since the Ivy colleges are not dependent on football for prestige, there is no need for a League." Brown had no fear of meeting Harvard, Yale, and Princeton, he said, because all had the same eligibility standards. For its position, he added, Brown had done exceptionally well in football.

► The University lent Brown Field to a Nov. 15 gridiron encounter between the Quonset Flyers of the Naval Air Station and a team from the Carrier F. D. Roosevelt for the benefit of the R. I. Cancer Society.

► The football used in the game between Brown and Rhode Island State went to State despite its defeat. Why? Because Capt. Lou Regine presented it to the Queen of the annual Brown Gridiron Hop, sponsored by the Varsity Lettermen's Club. She is a Senior at Kingston.

►► THERE WAS a perfectly good reason why Prof. Randall Stewart of Brown's English Department found himself on the wrong side of the Bowl the day we played Yale. He has been in New Haven every Saturday this fall as visiting professor.

Offered a ticket to the Brown-Yale game, he went out and found himself that rainy afternoon in the heart of the Yale cheering section, obviously a difficult spot from which to cheer for Brown. He controlled his enthusiasms rather well until the game had reached the point where Brown was two touchdowns ahead. Then he turned to one of the Yales on his right and said innocently, "Is that our first team in there?"

► Prof. Arthur E. Watson '88, emeritus, has many visitors at his home on Congdon St. at the corner of Meeting, but most of them knock before they come in. On Dec. 6, a snowy, slippery evening, two eight-ton busses skidded down the hill and crashed through an ornamental iron fence, broke the corner post of his house, splintered clapboards, broke the steam pipe on the living-room radiator, and shattered plaster all over. Earlier in the evening a car had rammed his fence, but that has happened a half-dozen times since Prof. Watson took up residence there, and he'd gone to bed trusting that everything was under control. Not those busses!

► I think we've told you that Alumni House is a distinguished old building which used to be the residence of Mrs. Nicholson White. A neighbor encountered one of the White girls the other night and asked what had become of the oil painting of her which used to hang in one of the rooms. "I used to enjoy walking along Brown St. and looking in the window to see that lovely portrait of you," said the neighbor. "Now all I see when I look in is Chet Worthington or Bill McCormick."

► It was not only on the gridiron that Coach Rip Engle won and lost last fall. After the Princeton game an unknown gentleman picked up a fountain pen, told Rip he'd dropped it, and disappeared as Engle put it in his pocket. Later on the train Engle looked at it and realized it wasn't his at all. But after the Yale game he was pummeled by a zealous congratulator who managed to lift Engle's wallet in the process. A maker of a thief-proof wallet read the AP squib on Engle's loss and sent him a gift wallet to make up for it. Incidentally, that storm the day of the Yale game knocked out the electricity at Engle's home and he returned to find his cellar in a bad way.

► Asked about his greatest football thrill, End Coach Bob Priestley told a Brown Daily Herald interviewer that it came in the 1941 Rhode Island State game. Remember? Bob stole the ball from a Rhody back and ran 96 yards for a clinching touchdown. Bob also enjoyed coaching his service team in England during the war: "My commanding officer played on the second string, and during practice I was the boss."

► Before the Rutgers game, the Herald said the perennial inebriate was not expected to assist in halftime ceremonies involving Bruno, the Bearcub mascot. "Butch took a memento of his hand last week at Harvard," said the report.

Incidentally, the worst pun of the year was perpetrated in connection with this imbibing fan with the Brown pennant. "He's not a Brown drunk," said the man-we-hate. "He's a fawn souse." (We pause for station wagon.)

► Prof. Benjamin C. Clough, editor of "The American Imagination at Work," had inscribed the portrait of him which appeared last month in the window of a bookstore downtown in Providence. It said, "With kindest regards to my favorite book-seller." The proprietor of the Book Shop, of course, is Mrs. Benjamin C. Clough.

Friends of the Library

► THE 1948 PROGRAM for the Friends of the Library has been completed with the booking of David H. Mearns as speaker for the annual Lincoln meeting on Feb. 2 and John T. Winterich '12 for the annual meeting on May 3. Dr. Mearns is Director of the Reference Library of the Library of Congress and will talk on the Robert Todd Lincoln Papers, lately disclosed to public inspection. Mr. Winterich is contributing editor to the Saturday Review of Literature, a staff member of the New Yorker, and author of the best-selling "Another Day, Another Dollar."

As previously announced, Prof. Sinclair Armstrong of the History Faculty will speak at the March 2 meeting on "Operation Gold Cup," in which he had a leading part. The April 5 speaker will be Dr. Peter Pineo Chase '06, a lay authority on "Dr. Johnson." Meetings are held in the John Hay Library, under the chairmanship of C. H. Philbrick '13.

More for McIntyre

► JOHN T. MCINTYRE, former assistant football coach at Brown, came to the campus again in December to receive new decorations for his war exploits. Capt. Francis D. McCorkle made the presentation before the Brown Naval Unit in Lyman Hall. He pinned on a second Distinguished Flying Cross, Gold Stars in lieu of third and fourth Air Medals, and the Silver Star. McIntyre was skipper of the night fighters aboard the Carrier Hornet during the height of the Pacific operations. This past fall he coached the Providence Steamrollers to a New England professional championship, with two Brown alumni in the line-up as regulars, Sal Eacuello and John O'Leary.

"Man, the Physician"

► SPONSORED by the Department of Medical Science at Brown, a series of seven weekly lectures on "The Study of Man, the Physician" began in December with invitations to students, Faculty, and others interested in medical education. Speakers and topics have included:

Dean Samuel T. Arnold '13, "General Education of the Student of Medicine"; Dr. Andrew H. MacPhail '13, Director of Educational Measurement at Brown, "The Professional Aptitude Test"; Dr. Alexander M. Burgess '06, "The Practice of Medicine Today and Tomorrow"; Dr. Oliver G. Pratt, executive director of the Rhode Island Hospital, "The General Hospital Tomorrow and Today"; Dr. Dwight O'Hara, Dean of the Tufts Medical School, "Admission to Medical School."

An evening devoted to medical studies brought back several recent graduates to the campus to tell of their graduate work: Willard Fernald '44, first-year man at Harvard Medical School; Joseph Dowling '47, second year student at Tufts Medical; Hermes Grillo '44, house surgeon at Massachusetts General Hospital; Dr. Michael DiMaio, Haffenreffer Fellow at Brown and R. I. Hospital.

Dr. Charles A. McDonald '03, Director of the University Health Services, acted as chairman for most meetings and will conclude the series Jan. 27 by talking on "The Study of Man by a Medical Man." Vernon R. Alden '45, admission officer, has been in charge of arrangements. Other January speakers will be: Jan. 13—Prof. Harold Schlosberg on "Psychology," Dr. John E. Donley on "Psycho-Somatics," Jan. 20—Prof. Herbert N. Couch of the Brown Classics Department on "The Art of Healing."

As Representatives of Brown

► THE FOLLOWING ALUMNI represented the University (in addition to administrative officers) at inaugurations of new College Presidents:

Chapin S. Newhard '22, Trustee, at the inauguration of Dr. F. L. McCluer as President of Lindenwood College in St. Charles, Mo., Oct. 23.

Paul Whitman Davis '20 of Berea College at the inauguration of Dr. Walter Alexander Groves as President of Centre College of Kentucky Nov. 14, 15.

Magic on View

► FOREMOST COLLECTOR of books on magic is H. Adrian Smith '30, who has built a special, air-conditioned, fireproof building at his home in Riverside, R. I., to house more than 6000 volumes appraised at $50,000. No other library of magical literature is known to surpass it, and its owner constantly adds to it as he travels.

The John Hay Library exhibited 100 of his rarest volumes in December, timing it for Mr. Smith's talk before the Friends of the Library Dec. 1. He drew one of the largest crowds of Friends with his remarks on "400 Years of Magical Literature" and with his subsequent demonstration of sleight of hand and instantaneous memory. He is a past National President of the Society of American Magicians and Vice-President of the International Brotherhood of Magicians.

Robert A. Stoeck, Jr., '27, President of the Cincinnati Brown Club, at the inauguration of Dr. Samuel D. Marble as President of Wilmington College in Wilmington, Ohio, Nov. 23.

Prof. Raymond P. Hawes '12 of Goucher College at the inauguration of Rev. Francis Xavier Talbot, S. J., as President of Loyola College in Baltimore Dec. 3.

Buonanno, School Committeeman

► VOTERS in a Providence district had an interesting choice to make in selecting a successor to Francis J. Brady '16, who retired after 22 years as a member of the School Committee. Visitors in the primary were Sherwin J. Kapstein '39 and Bernard V. Buonanno '31. Both came to Brown from Providence High Schools, both had been prominent athletes as undergraduates, both took graduate work on the Hill, both had taught and coached in Rhode Island high schools, both had gone into business at the end of the war, both are married, with children, both had strong sponsoring committees which included a good many Brown men. Buonanno emerged the winner, although Kapstein had led him in the primary (where another Brown alumnus, James F. Reilly '41, had also been a candidate). Buonanno has already begun service.

The winning candidate took not only his A.B. but also his A.M. at Brown. He taught French and coached track at Warwick High School until he transferred to Providence Classical in 1937. He taught there eight years in the language department, acting as head of the guidance department and coaching track and football. He resigned in 1945 to become general manager of the Atlantic Chemical Co., Inc., of North Providence, where he is associated with his brother, Joseph E. Buonanno '34, in the manufacture of textile chemicals. He is a director of the Federal Hill House and R. I. Camps, Inc.

Kapstein taught social studies and coached basketball, football and track at Aldrich and Lockwood High Schools in Warwick. He had one tour of duty with the 243rd Coast Artillery at the start of the war and later gained a Navy commission, serving as a visual education officer on a transport on both oceans. He is now in the wool supply business with his brother Daniel. He has been active in the AVC, the Providence Zionist District, and independent committees dealing with legislative issues.

"Straw to Make Bricks"

► THE ATLANTIC MONTHLY Press now announces "Straw to Make Bricks" for publication in January. The book is by Allan Marcus '43 and follows growing recognition of his progress as a writer of fiction.

► ► A Chapter for 50 Years

Kappa Sigma's Celebration

► ► IT IS NOT ONLY WASHINGTON's birthday; it is Kappa Sigma's, too. On Feb. 22, 1948, the Beta Alpha Chapter of Kappa Sigma Fraternity will have been established on the Brown Campus for 50 years.

Kappa Sigma traces its historical beginnings to the University of Bologna on or about the year 1400. The first chapter in the new world was founded at the University of Virginia Dec. 10, 1869 (which is still observed as "Founders Day") by five men, William McCormick, Frank Nicodemus, Edmund Rogers, George Arnold and John Boyd. The fraternity spread very rapidly during the next 25 years until in 1894 there were more than 50 chapters scattered throughout the country.

In the year 1898 the chapter at Brown received its charter from the Supreme Executive Committee with Charles I. Gates '99 and Mellinger E. Henry '99 the leaders among the petitioners. Fifteen men comprised the first chapter here at Brown—F. S. Johnson '99, A. H. Fitz '99, D. C. Hall '01, J. C. Peaslee '00, D. O. Webster '00, C. E. Stevens '01, E. L. Hart '98, E. P. Carr '01, L. M. Patton '00, C. J. Patton '01, L. B. Adams '00, and the two leading petitioners, Gates and Henry.

Since the time of its founding, the chapter has grown to be worthy of a fraternity at Brown. For many years, the chapter had its headquarters in Hope College until in the Fall of 1927 the chapter purchased the present house at 49 Angell St.

During the recent World War the chapter became inactive when all of the active brothers were called into the service. However, in February of 1946 the chapter was reactivated with the initiation of W. O'Connor '49, C. A. DiMaio '49, P. B. Wilcox '48, J. Mealey '49, A. J. Rooney, Jr., '48, S. A. Greene '48, R. D. McGrath '48, A. V. Hamilton '47, and A. P. Wharton '49. Since this time the chapter has grown to include 33 active members.

During the last year the house at 49 Angell has seen many improvements. First the cellar was redecorated and refurbished as lounges and a pool table and ping-pong table were installed. This last summer the house was sandblasted revealing the natural brick exterior, and the trim was painted, by the University. The first floor lounges were also painted. This Fall the brothers, with the aid of the Alumni, bought new furniture for the lounges, and the purchase of a new chapter flag completed the job. At the present the house looks much better than it has for a good many years.

The chapter has planned several big events in honor of its 50th year on the campus. On the weekend of Nov. 1 the chapter held an informal Open House and Dance Saturday afternoon. On Saturday evening a Formal Dance, and a Tea Dance on Sunday afternoon. Many of the Alumni took this opportunity to drop in and see the brothers and to inspect the job of redecoration. On Dec. 10 the chapter was acting as host for all of the New England Chapters of Kappa Sigma for the Founders Day Observance. Several national officers were expected to attend, among them Christian A. Natvig, National Treasurer, Wesley W. Kegan, National Secretary, Charles I. Gates, one of the chapter founders and National Ritualist, and Edward Brackett '14, Vice-President of the Associated Alumni.

On Feb. 21, 1948, the 50th Annual Initiation and Banquet will be held at which time we are hoping to have the six living founders present.

With the continuation of the growth of the fraternity and fraternity spirit, we are looking forward to the next 50 years on the campus of Brown.

In Two New Stations

► RHODE ISLAND's fourth independent radio station, WNAF, went on the air early in December. The officers of the Community Broadcasting Co., operators of the station, are Brown men and veterans of World War II. James L. Kavanaugh '37 is the President and general manager of the station; John H. Sherman '37, Vice-President and station manager; Louis P. Willemis '36, Vice-President and program director; and Theodore H. Friend '37, Secretary and general counsel.

WNAF is a daytime broadcaster with studios on Weybosset St. in Providence. A typical daily program will include a minimum of three hours of concert music, news on the hour, a strict limitation of singing commercials, and a maximum of 40 per cent of station time on the air to be sold to advertisers.

H. William Koster '32 has been named manager of the Providence Journal-Bulletin's new FM radio station, WPIB. Koster has been active in broadcasting work for several years, and has a broad background of experience in broadcasting in New England. For eleven years he was associated with WPRO in Providence as program director. For a time he was at KWK in St. Louis, and returns to Providence from Worcester where he was manager of Yankee Network's station WAAB.

Chancellor's Milestone

► THANKS "for the noble deeds of many years" accompanied the congratulations and best wishes from administrative officers of Brown University and the members of the Advisory and Executive Committee of the Corporation when the following resolution was adopted at the A&E meeting in December:

"On December 12th of this year Chancellor Henry Dexter Sharpe arrived at one of the very important milestones of his life—the 75th. As an alumnus since 1894, Trustee since 1904, and Chancellor since 1932, he has with fidelity and wisdom served his University with four Presidents, surrendered his leisure time to give invaluable counsel on college affairs, added to the resources of the University by his far-sighted beneficence, and through his moral excellence and love of learning has been a stalwart leader of the University which by its ancient charter is designed to form 'the rising generation to virtue, knowledge, and useful literature.'"

Dr. Frank L. Shepardson of Hamilton, N. Y., writes in gentle protest that we are compounding an old error in speaking of him as we did recently as the former editor of the Beta Theta Pi Quarterly and Baird's Manual. These offices were held by his cousin, Dr. Francis Wayland Shepardson, classmate and fraternity brother. The error crept into the Historical Catalogue and persists. "Say simply that I have always maintained an active interest in Beta Theta Pi," the Colgate emeritus professor suggests. "In fact, I am one of the charter members of the Brown or Kappa Chapter and out here for 50 years have been counted as one of the Colgate or Beta Theta Chapter."

Prof. Henry P. Manning, Class Secretary, has had good letters from a number of the men this past month.

Col. Albert A. Baker, who enjoys the distinction of being the oldest practitioner of law in Rhode Island, was present at the 50th annual meeting of the Rhode Island Bar Association held recently in Providence. There was a good newspaper picture of him next day.

1890

Dr. Charles F. MacKenzie is living at 1301 First Ave., Jackson, Miss.

1891

William Howard Paine's recollections of Providence were cited in the Providence Sunday Journal feature "I Remember" on Nov. 30. Said he: "I remember the Westminster Street characters of 1880-1889—Aunt Mary (Mary Locke) who sold flat-iron holders and died leaving $50,000; the blind fiddler on the north side of the Arcade; Eph Greene, the great detective, holding forth at the Hotel Dorrance on his exploits; and Old Uncle B, a religious zealot who carried a banner exhorting people to Repent or Go to Hell."

1892

James C. Collins has been re-elected President of the governing Society of the First Congregational Church in Providence.

Wilfred C. Leland has moved from Detroit to RR 1, Howard St., Roseland, Ontario, Canada.

Charles H. Merriman was critically injured Dec. 11 when he was hit by a trolley car in downtown Providence.

Arthur Llewellyn is living in Fontana, Wisc., with a winter address at Cocoa, Fla.

1894

Henry D. Sharpe has resigned as Treasurer of the Brown & Sharpe Manufacturing Co. in Providence—an office which he has held since 1904. He continues however as President of the company.

1895

Stafford Clarence Edwards, retired teacher and scientist, died in Los Angeles Dec. 4, 1947, failing to survive a heart attack. He had lived in retirement in Colton, Calif., for more than 20 years.

Mr. Edwards received his A.M. from Brown in 1896 and did further graduate work at Clark. He began his teaching as principal of the Union School, Greenport, N. Y., and Schuylerville Union School in the same State, then taught science in the New York City Schools for nearly 20 years. He was a Trustee of the Staten Island Natural History Museum for seven years. Moving on to Arizona because of ill health and then to California, he was editor of the Farm Bureau Monthly in San Bernardino County from 1922 to 1924 and then President of the Bureau for four more years. He held membership in the Botanical Club, Rift Club, and Mineralogical Club, all of San Bernardino County, and the Mineralogical Club of Southern California. His avocation was collecting and polishing geological curios from the Southwest and Pacific Coast. This same interest led him to spend most of his time during his last visit to the campus, in 1934, with Prof. C. W. Brown '00 in our Geology Department.

Theron Clark writes: "His courage was fine and strong, and he was planning ahead (when A. L. Philbrick '03 and I visited him in November), but his physical health was weak. My records indicate that he is the 53rd man who is gone out of a class of 95 men graduated in 1895. There are five '95 men still in the Los Angeles area. I am informed that Dr. Boodin (Dr. John E. Boodin, who has lived in quiet retirement at the University Club in Los Angeles for many years) has had a stroke and been taken to the hospital. Our number is getting smaller, but we have enjoyed our fellowship together here for many years."

Dr. Peter Clark Wright died on May 4, 1947, on his way north from a winter in Florida. Word came from Theron Clark of Los Angeles while the Alumni Office was trying to confirm the fact. Dr. Wright was for many years Associate Secretary and Executive Secretary of the Ministers and Missionaries Benefit Board of the Northern Baptist Convention, after pastorates as a Baptist clergyman in Tiverton, R. I., Lake Geneva, Wis., Irving Park, Ill., Norwich, Conn., Philadelphia, and Hartford. Brown gave him an honorary D.D. in 1917, at which time Dr. Faunce's citation called him "sturdy thinker of clear conviction but open mind, faithful preacher and pastor whom college and church can safely trust." His Brown fraternity was Chi Phi. The late Stuart M. Wright '26 was his son.

Theron Clark wrote from 2110 Ridgeview Ave., Eagle Rock, Los Angeles 41, Cal., a new address.

William A. Jones has a new address: Boston City Club, 14 Somerset St., Boston, Mass.

1897

William A. Harris left Dec. 14 for his annual trip for his factory. He expected to be away from Springfield, Mass., for four months and had included in his itinerary such cities as Atlanta, El Paso, Phoenix, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Portland, Seattle, and Spokane. He hoped to look up Brown men in each place.

Rev. Joseph C. Robbins of the Brown Corporation has a new address at 122 Ocean St., Squantum, Mass.

In the interests of the 50th anniversary, the reunion committee has distributed the roster of the Class and given a preview of its plans for June 19-21. "Remembering that we are advancing toward 80 rather than toward 70, your committee has tentatively side-tracked baseball, golf, and tennis and suggests an 'On Campus' reunion," says the announcement sent out by F. W. Arnold, D. K. Bartlett, and T. E. Steere.

"Application has been made for dormitory accommodations in Hope College and for breakfasts at the Faunce House cafeteria, which is right next door. Arrangement has been made for a dinner at the University Club June 19." The Class will take advantage of the All-Alumni dinner, the Alumni Meeting, and other Commencement exercises, including the "march down the Hill." ("With prearranged luck," there may be a ride back up to the campus, too.) The committee asks for suggestions from '98 men and an early indication of their intentions.

Names on the '98 roster: James S. Allen, Frederick W. Arnold, Warren J. Ballou, Dwight K. Bartlett, Henry M. Boss, Pliny W. A. Boyd, Thomas J. Burrage, William H. Cady, Willard L. Case, George W. Chaplin, Melvin F. Church, John W. Comey, Walter D. DeVault, Theodore E. Dexter, Charles D. P. Eaton, Joseph H. Farrell, John B. Ferguson, Ertelle E. Franklin, Allen B. Freeman, Robert J. Fuller, David L. Fultz, John A. Gammons, Arthur M. Greenwood, Edward S. Gushee, George W. Harrington, E. LeRoy Hart, Edward F. Hull, Harry C. Hull, Richard R. Hunter, Ralph K. Hyde, Frederick L. Jenckes, Luke J. Kavanaugh, Howard N. Kingsford, Simon S. Lapham, Lester B. Mathewson, Franklin K. Mathews, Clifford E. McGlaflin, George W. Morris, Smith L. Muller, Charles E. Paine, John Pettibone, William K. Potter, Roland C. Powers, Albert

Wins Milner Cup

► PHI KAPPA PSI won the College championship in touch football and gained first possession of the new Milner Trophy for this intramural sport by defeating Pi Lambda Phi in the playoff of a tie. Then the Phi Psis went on to play a 6-6 deadlock with the Providence College intramural champions, so that there was no c.t.y. title.

Points awarded in the Lanpher Cup competition for touch football are as follows: Phi Kappa Psi 75, Pi Lambda Phi 65, Delta Tau Delta and Phi Gamma Delta 58, Sigma Chi 50, Delta Kappa Epsilon 49, Theta Delta Chi 46, Zeta Psi 39, Delta Upsilon, Phi Delta Theta and Sigma Nu 26, Beta Theta Pi, Delta Phi, Kappa Sigma, Lambda Chi Alpha and Psi Upsilon 19, Alpha Delta Phi 16.

Posthumous Commission

► HARRY L. PILKINGTON of Winchester, Mass., received recently, by direction of the Secretary of the Navy, a commission in the Regular Navy issued posthumously to his son, Samuel S. Pilkington '43. The commission is given an effective date of Sept. 8, 1946, just one month before his death from accidental injuries received in line of duty at Charleston, S. C. At the time of his death he was Commanding Officer of the PCS 1392, an anti-submarine craft, and was a Lt. (jg) USNR.

Prepared for Brown at the high school in Winchester, where he had been born, Pilkington left at the end of his Sophomore year here to join the Merchant Marine. In 1942 he enlisted in the Navy with the grade of seaman 1st class. An ensign in June, 1944, he was assigned to the Miami Sub-Chaser Training Center. His fraternity at Brown was D.T.D.

George W. Bennett, Jr., Providence lawyer, died Dec. 3, 1947. A graduate of Boston University Law School, he is survived by his widow, Mrs. Marion Thompson Bennett of 14 Jenkins St.; a daughter, Miss May Elizabeth Bennett; and a son, George R. Bennett, also of Providence. He had practiced law since his admission to the Rhode Island bar in 1902. At B. U. he joined Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity.

1900

Mendell Crane, long ill at his home on the Louisiquisset Pike in Saylesville, concluded a recent letter: "but I did help Brown defeat Yale as I lay in bed." We know what he means, and a lot of loyal Brown men were backing the team by their radios that day.

Martha A. Marble, wife of George E. Marble of Worcester, left bequests to the Massachusetts College of Pharmacy and Williston Academy. She died last summer.

Allen Forbes has published a sequel to his "Some Statues of Boston" in a new brochure entitled "Other Statues of Boston." For the article on Maj. Gen. Joseph Hooker, USA, he had a collaborator in the general's kinsman, Col. G. A. Taylor, USA, ret., of Old Hadley. For the past 15 years the latter has lived in the old ancestral Dickinson Tavern, next door to the farmstead from which the General went to West Point, class of 1837. Levi Dayton, field and game columnist of the Daily Hampshire Gazette of Northampton, Mass., published another poem Oct. 27 from "Col. G. A. 'Bird' Taylor, that good sportsman from Hadley." It was a vivid picture of a hunting venture in "Indian Summer," the sort of expedition that provides "Suthin' ter think on come Yuletide." Our clipping has gone to the Harris Collection.

E. Tudor Gross contributes one of his beguiling Holmes parodies to "Sherlockian Studies," a new booklet by one of the scion societies of the Baker Street Irregulars. The story in question is purportedly told by "Dr. Warsaw" and is "The Mystery of the 10-20-Thirt." Many of Mr. Gross' parodies have appeared in Stamps and have an angle which makes them appropriate to this magazine of philately.

1902

Fred W. Greene, Jr., joshes us for the "Dr." which crept into the 1902 reunion report a couple of months ago just before his name: "I would like to say that this honor comes in the nature of a secret inditement, as it is all news to me. Would you kindly inform me as to whether it relates to football, track, wrestling, or divinity, and also send along a copy of the citation which accompanied its bestowal?" Having no official report from the Class, we had to resort to a newspaper clipping. Consider the buck passed and our apologies indicated.

The late Edward K. Aldrich, Jr., was to have judged Schipperkes at the 72nd annual Westminster Kennel Club show in Madison Square Garden in February.

Willard G. Wood writes us from 2600 Hudson Boulevard, Jersey City, N. J., adding that he is working as a sales engineer.

Ray F. Knowlton sends a new address at Apt. 154, Jericho Manor, Jenkintown, Pa.

Dr. Alton K. Curtis gives an address at 36 Porter St., East Hartford, Conn.

1903

Prof. W. Lewis Roberts has left the University of Kentucky and is now on the Faculty of the School of Law in the University of Houston, in Houston, Tex.

Marc T. Greene has returned to the South Sea Islands, and during December contributed to the Providence Journal a weekly narrative of the voyage of the "Vahine Tahiti." He has resumed the romantic writing of his travels which the war circumscribed, even after his release from Jap internment.

1904

John F. Woodman is now in retirement at 16 Wall St., Concord, N. H.

Dr. Carlton H. Maryott passed away suddenly on Nov. 19, 1947, in his home city of Augusta, Ga.

After receiving his A.B. at Brown in '04, he took graduate work and obtained his Ph.D. degree at Yale. He taught in Yale Medical College for a few years, also in Baylor University, and later became head of the bio-chemistry department in the medical college of the University of Georgia, a position which he held at the time of his death. Carl, known as "Tray", in college days at Brown was a member of Kappa Sigma Fraternity, and was elected to the honorary scientific society of Sigma Xi at Yale.

He invented several technical devices and processes and made a number of contributions to scientific journals. He was recognized as an authority in the field of biological chemistry and was called upon to serve as an expert witness in a number of well-known court trials in the South.

His death is mourned by the hundreds of medical students who came under him during his many years at Georgia Medical College, where he was popular with his students, who regarded him as thorough in his teaching and just in his dealings with them.

He is survived by his wife, Pauline Allen Maryott, sister of Austin K. (Chet) Allen '04, and Dave Allen '08, by his son Dr. Arthur A. Maryott of Washington, D. C., and two daughters, Katherine and Eleanor, of Augusta. He is also survived by his brother, Alfred J. Maryott '08 of Pawtucket, and two sisters. He was the son of the late Dr. E. Edgar Maryott, of the Class of 1870 in Brown.

Dr. Peter Pineo Chase, editor-in-chief of the R. I. Medical Journal, appeared last month as a contributor to the Alumni News of the University of Vermont, paying tribute to Dr. John B. Wheeler of the U. V. Medical School, "Small Town Surgeon" whose memoirs were so widely read. "He was the very model of a modern surgeon general," Dr. Chase paraphrased, adding "It should have been general surgeon, but that would make the cadence wrong."

Philip V. Marcus, Providence lawyer, died suddenly Dec. 6, after a brief illness and less than a day of hospitalization. A native of Providence, he received his Ph.B. and A.M. from Brown, took his law studies at Harvard, and was admitted to the R. I. Bar in 1911. He was a Republican in politics and served from 1938 to 1946 on the Providence City Council. He helped revise the City Charter in 1939. He was the first President of the Touro Fraternal Association; past Chancellor Commander of the Providence Knights of Pythias; past President of the Providence Zionist District; Providence Lodge, I. O. Brith Abraham; Rhode Island Bar Association and Commercial Law League of America. He was a member of Phi Beta Kappa, the Providence Brown Club, Redwood Lodge of Masons, and Temple Beth-El. He was active in civilian defense work during World War II. In addition to his widow, his son, the writer Alan R. Marcus '43 and his daughter, Miss Barbara E. Marcus, survive him. He was a good Brown man and a public-spirited citizen.

Eight Stories for Asia

▶ ARTHUR UPHAM POPE '04, Chancellor of the Asia Institute opened its new eight-story building at 7 East 70th St., New York City in December and launched a campaign for $350,000, part of which will be used to open an Asiatic information office for the press. He reports the Institute, which was founded 20 years ago, is now interested in 26 Asiatic countries, has assets of $1,000,000 and an art collection which he values at more than $1,500,000.

Pearl Harbor Day was selected for official opening, Dr. Pope said, because "it found us totally unprepared and not only militarily. We didn't understand what was going on in any part of Asia, and in consequence made serious and costly blunders which we have done little to repair in the last five years." ◀

Edge on Television

▶ WHEN YOU ASK a fisherman where he caught the fish, he is apt to prove mysterious and keep his pet spot to himself. But not Robert R. Edge '29, who has been writing and talking about rod and gun matters for years. He is the author of "1001 Places to Go Fishing."

Edge was a stock broker when the depression came along. A friend suggested at that point that he try spinning yarns on the radio about fishing and hunting. The idea clicked, and he has built up a great following for his lectures, radio work, and writing. He developed a weekly CBS feature called "Anglers of the Air," but he added winter sports to his repertory during the off-season for fishing. He produced and acted in a series of true stories of the sea, dramatized for the air. His interests called for a lot of travel, and at one time he spoke of 50,000 miles a year as his regular beat. His movies include shots of the planting of trout from a plane 1500 feet in the air, hunting with Babe Ruth, white Marlin fishing off Maryland, and conservation deer trapping activities in North Carolina. He was once press representative in this country for Nova Scotia.

Television has given Edge a new field, for he is CBS sports commentator for this medium. He has been identified with the Brooklyn Dodger baseball games, handles professional and amateur basketball at Madison Square Garden and the 69th Regiment Armory, and is heard during the fall on football broadcasts. ◀ ment was made in November. Young Bliss is back at Brown after war service with the infantry in the 11th Armored Division in the ETO.

Bus Wilcox protests at our publishing a recent item about Prof. Charles Stuart under the 1919 heading. Stuart backs him up on this inasmuch as he feels his real tie is with the class with which he entered Brown.

Claude A. Davidson, president of the New England Baseball League, was to represent his organization at the National Baseball Association meeting in Miami this month.

Fritz Pollard, when asked by The Inquiring Photographer of the New York News "What have you done in your life of which you are especially proud?", reminisced back to his college football days: "I'm justly proud of having played in the first Rose Bowl game at Pasadena, New Year's Day, 1916, Brown University vs. Washington State, and of having been the first colored player to be chosen for the All-America football team by Walter Camp." Fritz is now a talent representative in New York City.

Samuel Sheffield sends us an address at 3048 Wold Ave., East Walnut Hills, Cincinnati, Ohio. He is with the Cinco Windows Co. there.

Chet Scott called the Boston Post's attention to the fact that its 1947 booklet of "Football Facts" listed the first Rose Bowl game as the Oregon-Penn encounter of 1917. The paper acknowledged itself in error for neglecting to list the Brown-Washington State game of the previous year, but added: "So far as we know your postal card is the only correction contribution which has come to us despite the fact that we received requests for nearly 50,000 copies of the Post booklets."

As always, William H. Edwards was an effective Chapel speaker when he appeared before the Freshmen at Brown Dec. 2 with a fine talk about Presidents Andrews, Faunce, and Barbour.

The First-Calvary Baptist Church of Lawrence, Mass., has just completed a fine centennial year under its pastor, Rev. Herman L. Noyes, and his assistant and son, Rev. Lloyd L. Noyes '45.

Roger T. Clapp retired in December as Chairman of the Providence Area Committee of the Boy Scouts of America. He was again author of the Christmas play of the Providence Art Club, the title this year being "S.O.S." which a footnote interpreted to mean "Same Old Show."

1920

John F. Creamer's name appears on the ballot of the New York Athletic Club as a nominee for the Board of Governors, to be voted on Jan. 13. Heading the slate is Frank A. Sieverman, Jr., president-designate, father of Frank A. Sieverman, 3rd, '38.

Mr. and Mrs. Myles Standish of East Greenwich, R. I., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Emily Cushing Standish, to Peter Carl Frederick Hesse, of Providence.

Knowlton M. Woodin has been appointed Assistant Professor of Biology at Colby College. He is living in Waterville, Me., at 8 Messalouskee Ave. Previously, he had been an instructor at Simmons College and head of the Biology Department at Norwich University. In his wartime service he attained the rank of Major, CAC.

Earl Vinie is Dean of the Faculty at Alderson-Broaddus College, in Philippi, West Va.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold L. Tinker announced in November the engagement of their daughter, Melissa, a Pembroke Senior, to John A. Howland, a Brown Senior originally in the Class of 1946.

1922

Those who saw Bill Shupert's son playing football as a Junior this fall for Lower Merion High remark that young Bill, from the stands, in a football suit on the same field where his father played as a school-boy, looks an awful lot like his old man. Lower Merion had a championship club, by the way.

Robert B. Macdougall is educational director for radio station WAAT, Newark, N. J.

Miss Allane Gale, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. Ellsworth Gale of East Greenwich, spent two months recently with a group of American students who took part in the Experiment in International Living in France.

Rev. Walter Williams has been a visiting instructor at the College of Preachers of the Episcopal Church at the Cathedral in Washington, D. C. Mr. Williams, rector of St. Mark's Church in Denver, was Dean of the influential Music School at Evergreen, Colo., again last summer.

Barnaby McAuslan's son enrolled this year as a freshman at the University of Maine.

Here's what Nat Chase's committee is trying to work out in view of the demand from so many for some time on campus during our big 25th reunion: We'll start and finish in a College dormitory, arriving Friday, June 18, possibly in time for lunch. We'll spend the night on campus Friday after the Alumni Dinner and Class Night Dance. Buses will take the Class to Narragansett for Saturday, with golf, swimming and other sports. The Class Dinner will be held that night at a Narragansett Hotel, and we will spend the night there. Sunday the hope is to have the Class ferried across the Bay to a clambake club, and we'll be back on campus for the Alumni Meeting and Sunday night in our dormitory. Breakfast will precede the Commencement march on Monday, with Bill McCormick and Jed Jones as hosts. All this is tentative.

E. R. Alden is manager of the Claim and Safety Department of the Socony-Vacuum Oil Company, Inc., with offices at 26 Broadway, New York 4. Johnny is undertaking to raise a bit more money in the New York area on behalf of the 1923 Endowment Fund, especially toward the premiums on our life insurance policies.

Miss Constance Harvey Reynolds, charming daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey S. Reynolds, was one of the 29 debutantes who made their formal bow to Providence society at the Debutante Assembly Ball Dec. 29.

Dwight K. Bartlett, Jr., has formed his own company to handle the "Mail-Me-Monday" system of accounting for Worcester County, Mass. He sold out his interest in Snell Mfg. Sir:

The ALUMNI MONTHLY has reached me, and you can imagine how interested I was in it. It is now in the hands of Canon Savelli, who reads English and is especially interested. I was in a hurry to show it to him. There is always great curiosity in Italy about our college life—so absolutely different from the university make-up here. How they need our corporate family life at Brown!

Another Golden Era

▶ WHAT THE BROWN Debating Union needs is a good press agent. Under the coaching of Matthew Goring '26 the Brunonians have won 24 out of their last 25 intercollegiate debates and were undefeated this season as we went to press. Invited to debate Bates at the annual New England Interscholastic Forensic Conference, Brown had the satisfaction of winning even that one from a school which makes debating a major sport, and before a highly selected audience.

(We'd publish details of that winning streak if we could only get them.) ◀ studying the advisability of setting up a municipal department of public works.

Prof. George Sauté of Rollins College reports himself one of our "cover-to-cover" readers every month. His son, George DeWitt, is tentatively enrolled in the Brown class of 1953. "If he makes it," says the father, "that will bring Brown closer to us here in Florida." Prof. Sauté attended the national conference of the United World Federalists in St. Louis as delegate from Winter Park, Fla., and also voted Orlando's proxy.

Edward R. Place, who served for two years with the publicity staff of the Republican National Committee has become Secretary to Congressman Samuel K. McConnell, Jr., of the 16th Pennsylvania District. He reports seeing a lot of Carleton Scott this past fall when he was in Detroit. (Both are Barber Shop Quartet enthusiasts.)

Wyndham Hayward, whose reputation as a horticulturalist increases each year, was one of the speakers at the recent annual meeting of the Florida State Horticultural Society in St. Petersburg. He urged establishment of a State agricultural experiment station department of ornamental horticulture to undertake research on bulbs and other flowering plants. His own specialty is amaryllis. Both he and George Sauté, former pupils of Prof. Theodore Collier at Brown, take great satisfaction in the latter's presence in Winter Park as a Professor of History at Rollins College. Prof. Collier, Hayward told us recently, "is very popular here, and the Sunshine State has put a sparkle in his eye and a spring in his step so that he is looking 10 years younger than he did when he first came here three years ago."

Carl J. Lalumia's fine article on the McLevy Phenomenon was widely distributed by the Associated Press and widely used by its members. Under a Bridgeport, Conn., dateline, he explained the rise of Jasper McLevy to be Socialist mayor of the city and his success in being re-elected. McLevy polled just 30 votes in his first campaign but now gets 20,000, most of them attracted from the old-line parties. Lalumia lives up the line in Hamden, Conn.; his AP affiliation began in 1934 when he was New Haven editor for it.

Quentin Reynolds played the part of Quentin Reynolds in the film, "Golden Earrings," and seems to have been very convincing in the role. In fact, some critics had far kinder words for him than for the stars of the show, Marlene Dietrich and Ray Milland.

William Chalmers has joined the faculty of the University of Illinois and their School of Industrial Relations. The Chalmers will be living at 108 W. Florida St., Urbana, Ill.

Dr. Ernest W. Gray is now with the English Department of the University of Toledo.

Dr. Milton Goldberger has settled permanently in Tucson, Ariz., where he is living at 729 N. 6th Ave.

M. M. Meier writes that he has left the Federal Government for private law practice and has a new address at 239 E. Palisade Ave., Englewood, N. J.

Larry Brown popped up in a feature story in the Worcester Telegram which Martin Sheridan wrote after touring our Caribbean bases. "Construction problems during the building of military bases on leased areas in the Caribbean ranged from filling in mud holes and swamps, installing water systems, blasting air strips out of volcanic rock, and paying five dollars for every coconut tree knocked down. Former Navy Lt. Laurence C. Brown, who first went to St. Lucia as a civilian engineer and paddled ashore in a dugout canoe, knows well the problems of this hectic wartime construction program. Larry also worked on military construction at San Juan and the Virgin Islands before being commissioned in the Navy. He married a St. Croix, Virgin Islands, girl, and is now living there."

Fred Haas continues with General Electric as its district representative for electric ranges and water heaters in New England and part of New York State. At the Haas home at 15 Grafton Ave., Islington, Mass., Fred reports they've "added a shortstop to the second baseman already in the family. Roberty Terry Haas was born Nov. 22. Gordon Frederick Haas is now 4½ years old, so he should be showing up at Brown

Shevelove's Revue

► OBSERVING the come-back of the intimate revue in the face of mounting production costs, Bert McCord of the New York Herald Tribune notes that "Small Wonder" is being prepared for March production on Broadway. This revue is to be sponsored by Burt Shevelove '37 and George Nichols. The sketches and songs will be contributed by various writers whose material is being auditioned. Shevelove, a member of the production staff of Carl Wharton, was one of Brownbrokers' brightest stars.

Sitting Is Big Business

► ALL THE BABY-SITTERS you want. This is the service provided by two enterprising Brown undergraduates, Harvey Langee and his roommate, Bob Cook, as a means of working their way through college. To their corps of Brown and Pembroke students who do the actual sitting they sell the idea with the following thought: What better way is there to make an honest dollar and get your homework done at the same time?

For bringing the baby and sitter together, all the agency asks is a small commission percentage. Langee and Cook have turned their room into an office, complete with telephone which rings most during "office hours" from one to five, when they get some studying done, too.
